

LETTERBOXING @ YOUR LIBRARY

ART IN THE LIBRARY

*Letterboxing is simple and easy to do,
Just follow the directions for each clue.
Work in a team if you think it will be better,
Each clue will give you a number or letter.
The answers together are what you must seek,
To that call number is where you should creep.
And as we are sure you know,
When upstairs keep your voices low.*

Clue #1: Find the Children's hardcover reference copy of Roslyn: Then and Now by Roy W. Moger. On page 90, you will find a map of Cedarmere, the home of the poet William Cullen Bryant. Find the laurel oak on the cream-colored map.

What letter represents the laurel oak on the map? _____

Clue #2: Upstairs, near the reference desk, look around for a white marble sculpture.

What is the last letter in the sculptor's last name? _____

Clue #3: Return to the children's room and search high and low for a triangular mobile. When you find the mobile look around to find the name of the sculptor.

How many letters are in his last name? _____

Clue #4: Search the children's room for a sculpture of the white rabbit from Alice in Wonderland.

What time is it on his watch? _____ (You only need the first number.)

Clue #5: Go back upstairs to the adult section of the library. Search for a large globe dedicated to the memory of Gladys Lasoff. Find the date the globe was dedicated.

How many letters in the month's name? _____

Clue #6: As you return to the children's room find the name of the artist who painted the mural in the stairway.

What is the first letter of her first name? _____

Combine your answers to create a call number. Find this call number in the juvenile reference section and you will find our letterbox.
